Carter Anderson Joins South Dakota Ag Statistics Service

SIoux FALLS, May 10, 2001 -- Carter Anderson has been named State Statistician for the South Dakota Agricultural Statistics Service. He replaces William Hamlin who left to assume the State Statistician position in Nebraska. "My goal is to serve South Dakota's agricultural producers and the industry by providing the best possible statistics", Anderson says.

Carter is a fourth generation native of North Dakota. The family farm in south central North Dakota was homesteaded in 1882. Anderson earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in Agricultural Economics from North Dakota State University. Carter's 17 years experience with the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) includes working in the Idaho, Minnesota and Utah state offices. He most recently headed the agency's list frame section in Washington DC.

Carter and his wife, Merry, reside in Sioux Falls.
